Wedding Packages 2022/23

It All Starts With You

And me of course, but mostly you.
Because at the end of the day, it's your day.
Which means, of course, that it is all about you.

The Big Picture

As your wedding photographer, my job is to capture stunning memories of your big day for you to share with family and friends for generations to come – and yours is to enjoy the experience.

To help make this happen, the starting point is always a meeting. Ideally this happens in person but What'sApp or Zoom works also, and between us we get a sense of how you want me to capture your wedding day so that it is totally personal and unique to you.

Naturally, you will be the star of the show and, as such, the photos I take of you will reflect this. But all the other players also have an important part to play in your memories so I will make sure to capture all the family and friends groups in a fun natural way. Alongside this I will spend time capturing the other moments that often go unseen and unrecorded because, be they funny or poignant, full of laughter or tears, these are the ones that will really capture a true picture of your wedding day.

In a nutshell, from constructing a timeline to putting together a shot list, by the time you step in front of my camera on your wedding day, we will have ironed out all the details, so you can just enjoy your day and let me do the rest for you.

Photography Packages

Obviously, every package I offer includes a series of beautifully personal photographs that you will always have as a unique memory of your day. You can however choose from a number of options to truly make it your own.

For example, a popular tradition is that the wedding prep is recorded from early morning and the first time you see each other is just before the ceremony. But more and more often, we see fewer superstitions around seeing each other before the ceremony, and some couples are even choosing to walk up the aisle together.

So whether you decide to get ready together, separately at the same venue, or at different venues we can talk about how best to accommodate whatever it is you wish to have recorded. It's your day, after all.

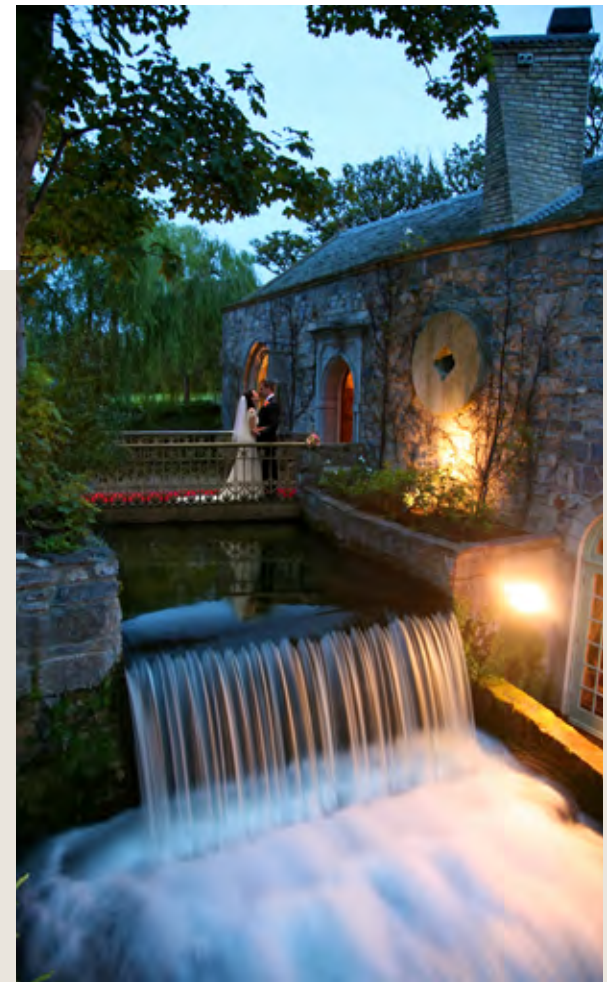

Equally some couples are happy to see me off as soon as they sit down for dinner while others like me to stick around for the first few dances. Many like the idea of a second photographer who can often get a different angles and some go for drone coverage to get a bird's eye view of proceedings.

The other options centre around how you want to receive your images. Every package comes complete with access to a beautiful online slideshow and cloud based image gallery featuring between 600 and 800 high resolution digital images. This can be viewed anywhere and shared with family and friends.

As an added extra we can supply a USB drive with your images (print ready) for those who may have a poor internet connection. We also offer a unique wooden USB Photo Print Box at a small extra cost.

Beyond that you can choose from a range of printed images including our Fine Art Albums that offer a unique combination of hand crafted bindings paired with a contemporary design with either a 100% full grain leather or beautiful fabric cover. These albums open out flat so you get a full view of each image. You can also opt for a pair of smaller parent albums as well as a selection of framed prints and even gift prints to send on to your guests.

Basically what you choose is up to you and I am always happy to discuss different options but, to give you an idea of cost I have included my list of standard packages here.

And remember – you can ask me anything and if it's even remotely possible I'll make sure to achieve it!

Photography Selection

No two couples are the same, no two weddings are the same but there are certain moments that I will always capture, alongside those that are unique to the day that's in it.
